Congratulations! You've completed the TypeFinder.

Phew! You just answered 130 questions about your personality. Nice work!

Let's dive right in and see what we've found about your personality type. But first, a note:

This is a "sneak peek" at your results. This free, basic report shows you how you scored on each of the four major dimensions of personality. You'll learn about the fundamental elements that make up your personality type, and what these four factors mean for your life. You'll also get a hint at the additional depth and detail you can discover if you unlock your full report ($29).

With that out of the way, let's take a look at your results!

The Elements of Your Personality

We'll begin by looking at the four major dimensions of personality, and showing you how you scored on each dimension. Each dimension provides a broad description of how you approach things in a fundamental aspect of your life: how you manage your energy, relate to others, process thoughts and feelings, and organize your daily activities.

Introversion vs. Extraversion

This dimension describes how you manage your energy. Your preference for Introversion or Extraversion relates to how readily you express yourself, how easily you warm up to new people, and the extent to which you engage with the world around you. But most fundamentally, this dimension relates to whether you are energized by time alone, or time with other people.

Shares

Introverts are energized by being quiet, reflective, and calm. They maintain a distance from the outside world and prefer to conserve their energy.

Introverts enjoy:

- Contemplating ideas and experiences
- Being in calm surroundings
- Exploring a subject in depth
- Reflecting on thoughts or feelings
- Maintaining distance and privacy
- Quiet and solitude

Shares

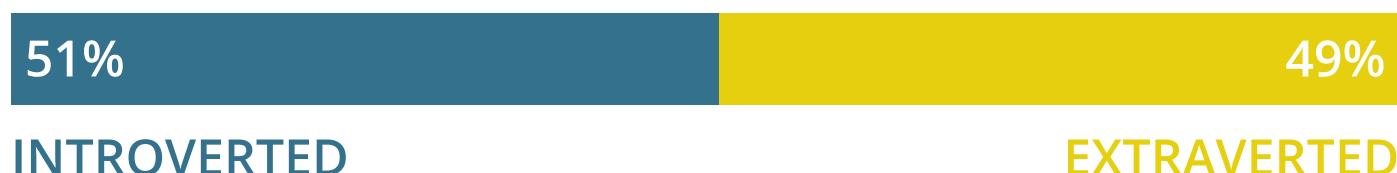

Extraverts are energized by engaging with other people. They approach the world enthusiastically and want to experience the excitement of life.

Extraverts enjoy:

- Interacting with people
- Being in busy surroundings
- Engaging with the outside world
- Expressing thoughts and feelings
- Being noticed by others
- Stimulation and activity

Your energy style is blended, with a slight preference for Introversion.

Your responses were 51% consistent with a preference for Introversion, and 49% consistent with a preference for Extraversion.

Your energy style is a blend of Introversion and Extraversion, and as such, you are neither a true Introvert nor a true Extravert. For the purposes of personality typing, you may call yourself an Introvert, as you do tend slightly to prefer this mode. However, it's more accurate to say that you are a bit of both Extravert and Introvert: you tend to use both styles somewhat equally, or you may prefer one style over the other.

depending on the situation.

Sensing vs. Intuition

This dimension describes how you process information. Your preference for Sensing or Intuition indicates whether your style of thinking is straightforward, factual, and concrete, or creative, interpretive, and abstract. Sensors and Intuitives tend to be interested in different kinds of information, with Sensors more interested in facts and details, and Intuitives more interested in ideas.

Shares

Sensors process information in a concrete, realistic way. They focus on observing and recalling facts and details.

Sensors focus on:

Observing sights, sounds, sensations

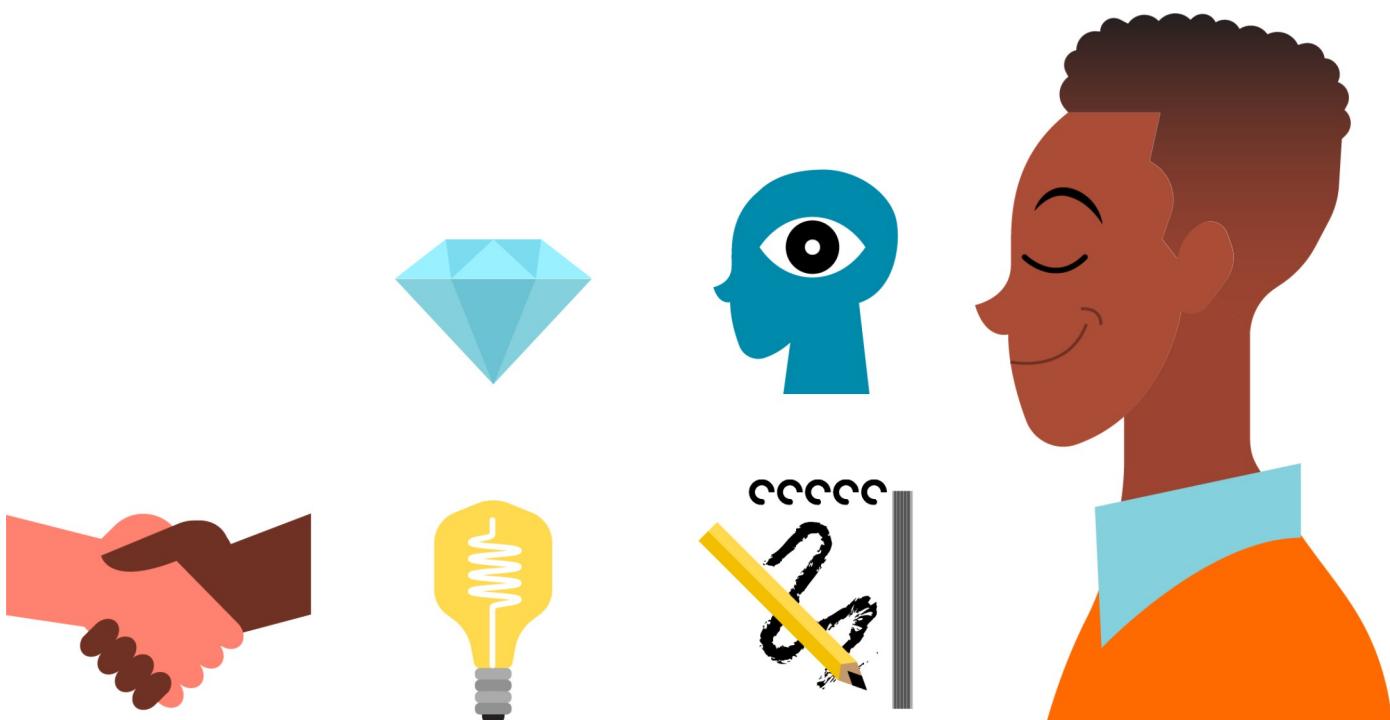

Noticing details

Experiencing the present moment

Concrete, provable facts

Realism and practicality

Knowledge from past experience

Intuitives process information in an abstract, imaginative way. They focus on ideas and concepts that cannot be directly observed.

Intuitives focus on:

- Observing patterns and connections
- Interpreting meaning
- Imagining potential
- Ideas and concepts
- Innovation and creativity
- Possibilities for the future

Shares

Your dominant cognitive style is Intuition.

Your responses were 61% consistent with a preference for Intuition, and 39% consistent with a preference for Sensing.

As an Intuitive, you are primarily interested in ideas and possibilities. You tend to be bored by mundane details, preferring instead to look at the big picture and understand how everything fits together. You are drawn to interesting ideas and theories, and enjoy imagining the future. You naturally see patterns and connections and often have a "sixth sense" about things.

Thinking vs. Feeling

This dimension describes your orientation to personal values. Your preference for Thinking or Feeling can be thought of as your preference for "head versus heart" in your decision making. This dimension relates to how you prioritize conflicting values, and whether you tend to feel more comfortable relying on logic and reason, or emotions and personal judgments.

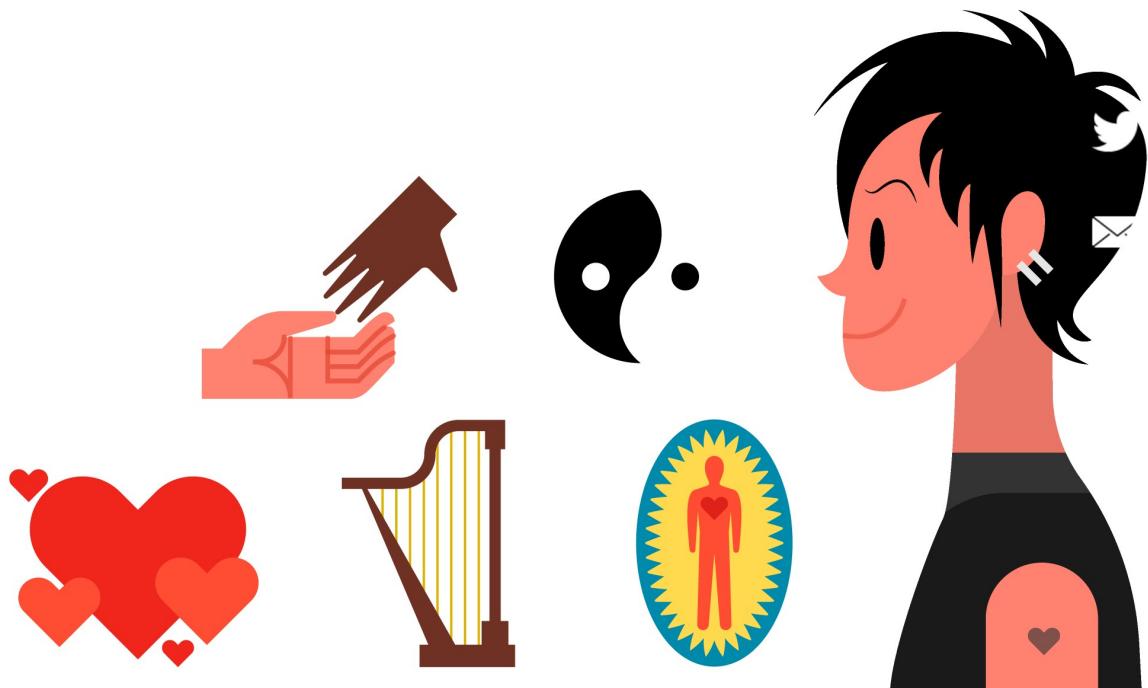

Thinkers value logic, competence, and objectivity. They believe that every person has a responsibility to take care of him or herself.

Thinkers are concerned with:

- Using logical reasoning
- Being unbiased and impartial
- Considering costs and benefits
- Seeking consistency and justice
- Keeping a competitive edge
- Making objective decisions

Shares

Feelers value empathy, cooperation and compassion. They believe that everyone has a responsibility to take care of those around them.

Feelers are concerned with:

- Acting out ideals
- Engaging emotions
- Considering the impact on people
- Seeking harmony and appreciation
- Serving others
- Making authentic decisions

Your values style is blended, with a slight preference for Thinking.

THINKING

FEELING

Your values style is a blend of Thinking and Feeling, and as such, you are neither an absolute Thinker nor an absolute Feeler. Because you do show a slight preference for Thinking, we can classify you as an Thinker type. However, it's more accurate to say that you are a bit of both Thinker and Feeler: you tend to use both styles in processing information, and you may switch from one to the other depending on the demands of your environment.

Perceiving vs. Judging

This dimension of personality describes how you manage your life. Your preference for Perceiving vs. Judging has to do with your orientation toward structure, schedules, deadlines, and organization. It also has to do with how you tend to manage your time and approach the work you have to do.

Perceivers like freedom and spontaneity. They have a carefree attitude towards life and would rather be flexible than structured.

Perceivers prefer to:

- Follow the whims of the moment
- Make the rules up as they go
- Have the freedom to be flexible
- Brainstorm options
- Do things when inspiration strikes
- Go with the flow and enjoy surprises

Judgers like structure and order. They keep organized and plan ahead, resist distractions, and stay focused on their goals.

Judgers prefer to:

- Create a plan and stick to it
- See a task through to completion
- Adhere to a schedule
- Set goals and maintain focus
- Follow rules and regulations
- Set clear expectations

Your dominant life management style is Perceiving.

As a Perceiver, you like to keep things casual and open-ended. You dislike being tied down, preferring instead to be free to go with the flow and the impulses of the moment. You tend to avoid rigid structures and organizational systems, and shy away from scheduling your time in advance. You like to be free to make last-minute changes as new ideas arise.

Your Personality Type Code

Now, let's take a look at how the elements of your personality combine to create your personality type. Your personality type is the sum of your preferred style on each of the four major dimensions.

We use four-letter codes to describe each personality type. To create these codes, we abbreviate each preference with a single letter, for instance E for Extraverted or N for Intuitive. Then we combine the four letters into a personality type like INTJ or ESFP.

The following chart shows your top 3 personality type matches.

INFP - The Healer

VERY GOOD MATCH

Shares

INFPs are imaginative idealists, guided by their own core values and beliefs. Focused on possibilities rather than reality, INFPs see potential for a better future, and pursue truth and meaning with their own individual flair.

INTP - The Architect

VERY GOOD MATCH

INTPs are philosophical innovators, fascinated by logical analysis, systems, and design. They are preoccupied with theory, and search for the universal law behind everything they see.

ENTP - The Inventor

GOOD MATCH

ENTPs are inspired innovators, motivated to find new solutions to intellectually challenging problems. They are curious and clever, and seek to comprehend the people, systems, and principles that surround them.

Your Personality Profile

You are a detached, analytical observer who can seem oblivious to the world around you, because you are so deeply absorbed in thought. You spend much of your time focused internally: exploring concepts, making connections, and seeking understanding. To you, life is an ongoing inquiry into the mysteries of the universe.

Your Core Values:

- Reason
- Autonomy
- Originality
- Skepticism

Your Key Motivators:

- Understanding the world
- Questioning established ideas
- Developing creative solutions
- Analyzing complex problems

Shares

You present a cool exterior but are privately passionate about reason, analysis, and innovation. You seek to create complex systems of understanding to unify the principles you've observed in your environment. Your mind is complicated and active, and you will go to great mental lengths trying to devise ingenious solutions to interesting problems.

You are non-traditional, and more likely to reason out your own individual way of doing things than to follow the crowd. You are suspicious of assumptions and conventions, and eager to break apart ideas that others take for granted. You are merciless when analyzing concepts and beliefs, and hold little sacred. You are often baffled by other people who remain loyal to ideology that doesn't make logical sense.

What You Need to Know

You've got questions about who you are and what makes you tick. Maybe you're wondering why you can't find a career that suits you. Maybe you're trying to figure out how to handle a relationship that keeps going sideways. Maybe you're trying to solve the mystery of why you always feel just a little bit...

different.

We've spent three years and thousands of hours researching personality type, testing and retesting theories, and crunching more data than you can shake a stick at. And we did it all for one and only one reason: so you can answer those questions. Because it's hard to feel confident in yourself if you're not exactly sure who you really are. It's confusing to go through life not knowing why your perspective doesn't always line up with other people's. And it's nearly impossible to make big life decisions when you're not sure what will ultimately make you happy.

You could keep guessing. You could keep taking free quizzes that only scratch the surface of your personality and give you generic, one-size-fits-all info about yourself. But honestly, that kind of seems like a waste of time. Why not stop filling out endless questionnaires and focus on what's really going to make a difference in your quest to understand yourself? Why not get a detailed, accurate report (/upgrade-test-spheres-results/6554029) that can actually answer all those tough questions?

I found the report enlightening and comforting; it explained why I often think I have two (or more) personalities within me, with different viewpoints on different days. It shows me where I excel, and where I need more balance; and how to make the most of my traits to get to where I want to be.

I've done similar MBTI tests quite regularly as a way to recognize changes and static traits of how I work. Turns out the INFJ is the most consistent one.

Something that's popped up was the trait of not being very adventurous, perhaps this indicates a non-wholehearted mindset. For now I am happy with the report and will enjoy focusing on strengths instead of working against one's own nature.

Mostly accurate with a few big misses. Somehow it pegged me as not adventurous, which is far from the truth. I'm a very hard worker, like structure and will get my work done before play but I love new and risky activities. In the work place and outside, I like organization but I will take plenty of risk.

I have been licensing and using Psychometric assessments in my Leadership, Career and Life Coaching practice from a large company in Canada for over seven years. When I did "The TypeFinder Personality Test and viewed the results, a few amazing things struck me:

- (1) The results were VERY accurate and described me better than most personality tests I have taken in the past. Shares
- (2) The results were very detailed.
- (3) The careers recommended were very accurate and in line with what I currently do as a Leadership, Career and Life Coach
- (4) The formats of the online and PDF reports were quite professional and visually appealing.
- (5) The advice given was very helpful and practical.
- (6) The price of the assessment and report was quite reasonable.

In summary, I would highly recommend The TypeFinder Personality Test if you are looking to understand yourself better, and what career groupings best suit your personality. It will be money well spent!

This is the third personality test that I tried this morning. This test was the best most accurate one of the three! I paid for the whole test results and this did help me understand the results a lot more. I liked that it didn't just put me in one category but explained why I use both sides of the equation. For example, I am naturally an extrovert but in conflict or high tension or with strong personality people I introvert! This is helpful for me to work on strengthening my skills in these types of situations. I will be using this tool in my Life Development/Coaching business. I think it is clear, very in-depth, accurate and easy to use! This will be a great tool when working with client's to understand who they are and how they were created to influence their world, families, and work places!

Using the free test Truity couldn't fully pin down my personality type. Curious I decided to pay for the full test and the results. The full test reveled the reason why. I'm 1% borderline between Thinking and Feeling and tend to flip flop depending on the situation. The full test results go into greater detail and use percentages to help pinpoint where you are on the spectrum for each traits they are testing for. There Shares were several areas where I went "huh, that's why I do that" or "oh that totally makes sense now."

I think people generally know who they are, but accurate tests like this help explain the whys of what we do and maybe just clarify exactly who we are when we try to explain ourselves to other people.

I also got a chuckle out of the career results, because every career I ever looked at getting into was on the list. That was pretty cool.
